

1986

NZPA, 2011a

search

HAPPY FEET- THE LIVE STREAM

Full Story

Kiwi historian makes history at Oxford

1 comments | Post Comment

Email Print Text Size: aA aA aA

MON, 09 MAY 2011 8:50P.M.

A prominent New Zealand historian has been appointed to one of the top jobs in the world in his field.

Professor James Belich will take up the Beit Professorship of Commonwealth and Imperial History at Oxford University England in October.

He is currently Professor of History at Victoria University's Stout Research Centre for New Zealand Studies.

The Beit Professorship provides research leadership in Commonwealth, imperial and global history and is awarded to a historian of exceptional and international reputation.

The position was established in 1905 and Prof Belich will be the seventh historian to hold it.

Victoria University Vice-Chancellor Professor Pat Walsh said today the appointment was testimony to Prof Belich's position as one of the world's leading scholars in New Zealand and, increasingly, global history.

"The appointment is richly deserved and is evidence that New Zealand history and perspectives are being taken seriously in a global context."

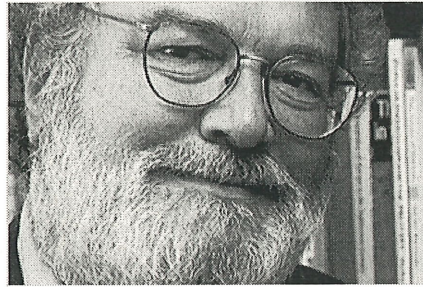

Prof Belich said the appointment was an honour and would allow him to take his research interests, which he described as "increasingly global" to a wider canvass.

Born in Wellington, Prof Belich gained both a Bachelor and Master of Arts from Victoria. As a Rhodes Scholar, he went on to Oxford University and graduated as a Doctor of Philosophy in 1981.

His book, The New Zealand Wars, won the Trevor Reese Memorial Prize for historical scholarship in 1987 and was later turned into a major television documentary series.

NZPA

Follow 3 News on Facebook

Prof James Belich

Facebook Twitter

Like Be the first of your friends to like this.

SAME POWER DIFFERENT ATTITUDE

Marcus Lush Live with Hilary Barry
Join Marcus as he brings you the latest news, analysis and interviews
Click here for more

Latest Most Read Most commented

- Mass migration: Giant parade of humpback whales
- Staggering amount of ivory smuggled into US
- Video shows rare tiger dying in boar trap
- Brazil to send 100,000 science students abroad
- Scientists claim time travel is impossible

Latest Video Most Viewed Top Rated Video

Mass migration: Giant parade of humpback whales

Staggering amount of ivory smuggled into US

Big cats... Zion rece...

Up to 60% OFF skincare
SHOP NOW

StrawberryNET.com
the fresh cosmetic company

Up to 50% off skincare
Free gift. Free shipping worldwide. Limited time only at StrawberryNET nz.strawberrynet.com/skincare

NZ Salary Guide
Find out what you're worth - check out national pay rates by job type
Trademe.co.nz/Jobs/Salary-guide

Win $15,000 Competition
Take a 5 minute online survey for your chance to win $15,000 cash!

Related Articles

- Oxford comma commotion punctuated by fact
- Alexander the Great rides again
- Top UK academics starting private university
- VIDEO: Michelle Obama inspires London students
- Roman history lovers step back in time - photos
- ing at centre of Caravaggio mystery unveiled
- anniversary of Dunkirk's heroic WWII ships

3rd

