Ngāti Toa and New Zealand Rugby Union enter new era of relationship with Ka Mate

Historic agreement reaffirms 100-year connection to haka

Te Runanga o Toa Rangatira Incorporated, the body representing Ngati Toa Rangatira, and the New Zealand Rugby Union have today signed a new agreement which formalises the century-old relationship built on the performance of Ka Mate by the All Blacks.

The Memorandum of Understanding, signed by both parties today at Takapūwāhia Marae in Porirua, confirms the support of Ngati Toa for the continuing performance by the All Blacks of Ka Mate, the special relationship that exists between Ngati Toa and the NZRU, and a shared desire to work together.

While the detailed terms of the document remain confidential, it provides certainty to the NZRU regarding its on-going use of Ka Mate, while at the same time giving assurances to Ngati Toa that the use of the haka will be respectful.

Te Runanga o Toa Rangatira Incorporated Chairman, Riki Wineera says: "We have always supported the All Blacks performance of Ka Mate and take great pride in the fact that through this association, Ka Mate is an important part of New Zealand's cultural history. But above all of this, Ka Mate is a taonga of Ngati Toa Rangatira and we as an iwi have an obligation to protect it. One of the iwi's long standing concern is that Ka Mate has been used in a belittling and culturally offensive way.

"Fortunately the NZRU respects this position and has agreed to work with us to ensure that the integrity of Ka Mate is protected. This landmark occasion signals the beginning of a formal and long term relationship where we will cooperate to ensure Ka Mate is respected and its use is appropriate. The iwi does not wish to restrict the use of the haka Ka Mate by any New Zealand representative sports teams who wished to perform it or on other appropriate occasions."

NZRU CEO Steve Tew said the signing of the agreement was a significant step for the NZRU in its relationship with Ngati Toa, and its 100-year association with Te Rauparaha's haka.

"The All Blacks have been performing Ka Mate for more than 100 years and it has a very special place in the team's history and culture.

"We have been privileged to be able to perform Ka Mate with the blessing of Ngati Toa Rangatira but it is great to give that understanding some status, to recognise the significance of Ka Mate and the special relationship we share with Ngati Toa," Mr Tew said.

Today's signing ceremony was preceded by NZRU representatives including Chairman Mike Eagle, New Zealand Maori Rugby Board Chairman Wayne Peters and CEO Steve Tew being formally welcomed on to Takapūwāhia, Ngati Toa's marae in Porirua.
