Thousands of people have gathered across Aotearoa to march in the annual School Strike 4 Climate (SS4C) event.

On Friday students marched in the main centres in New Zealand, beginning at 3pm to demand drastic action on climate change.

Students have created five key demands they want politicians to adhere to.

Their demands are:

- No new exploration or mining of new fossil fuel resources.
- Lower the voting age to 16-years-old.
- 30 percent marine protection by 2025.
- Support regenerative farming.

In Auckland, many people gathered in the CBD to protest against climate change. On Facebook, School Strike 4 Climate NZ posted there were marches all the way from Waiheke to Wānaka that people could attend to.
