

Lifeline Utilities

- Duties of lifeline utilities
- CDEM work with lifeline utilities
- What should lifeline utilities do?
- Lifelines reports and resources
- New Zealand Lifelines Council
- Lifelines Groups
- Lifelines utilities coordination during emergencies
- National Lifelines Forum archive

Lifeline Utilities

Find information and resources for lifeline utilities.

Lifeline utilities are entities that provide essential infrastructure services to the community. For example, water, wastewater, transport, energy and telecommunications. These services support communities, enable business, and underpin the provision of public services.

Duties of lifeline utilities ›

Learn about the legislative duties of lifeline utilities.

CDEM work with lifeline utilities ›

Learn about the planning and operational relationships between Civil Defence Emergency Management (CDEM) Groups and lifeline utilities.

What should lifeline utilities do? ›

Find out what lifeline utilities should do to plan for emergency events and meet their obligations under the Civil Defence Emergency Management (CDEM) Act 2002.

Lifelines reports and resources ›

Find reports and resources for work relating to lifeline utilities.

New Zealand Lifelines Council ›

Find out about the New Zealand Lifelines Council (NZLC).

Lifelines Groups ›

Learn about Lifelines Groups and their role.

Lifelines utilities coordination during emergencies ›

Learn about how lifeline utilities are coordinated in response and recovery to an emergency event.

National Lifelines Forum archive ›

View presentations from the annual National Lifelines Forum.

New Zealand Government

